EXHIBIT A SCOPE OF SERVICES

A. Principal Tasks

The Subrecipient will be responsible for administering the Project for homeless, low-income individuals, who are experiencing housing insecurity. The Subrecipient will administer all tasks encompassed in the aforesaid Project in compliance with all applicable federal, state and local rules and regulations governing the Project, in a manner satisfactory to the City.

The components of the Subrecipient's work plan under this Agreement shall be as follows:

1. Subrecipient shall administer the Eviction Prevention and Diversion Project in collaboration with the Pueblo County Bar Association, the Pueblo Access to Justice Committee, the Pueblo County Department of Social Services, the Local Landlord Association and Emergency Rental Assistance Programs to help low-income tenants, at risk of eviction, by providing accurate and timely legal information and education, emergency rental assistance applications, and by providing other legal assistance necessary to maintain a low income person's or family's housing stability. The Subrecipient will employ a dedicated full-time housing attorney who will provide outreach, legal information and education, assistance and representation to low-income residents in the City and County of Pueblo at risk of losing their housing. The Project attorney will coordinate with the Southern Colorado Eviction Defense Legal Fund (ELDF) attorney and paralegal and will utilize the services of pro bono attorneys to ensure that staffing for the project is available.

2. During the term of this Agreement, Subrecipient shall focus on community outreach informing agencies and the public of the resources as well as a focus on early intervention assisting tenants before an entry of judgement is made by the court. The Project attorney and a paralegal will be responsible for establishing outreach partnerships with Pueblo County social service agencies and other public and non-profit agencies. The Project attorney and the current housing paralegal will develop outreach materials and referral information for residents in Pueblo who are at risk of losing their housing. To ensure that information about the Project is available to as many landlords and renters as possible, the local landlord association will be an essential part of the Project work. Individuals will be encouraged to contact the Subrecipient if they are at risk of eviction or if they have received any legal papers (notices or pleadings) concerning an eviction. All applicants must be determined to be financially eligible before the applicant can receive any assistance. As part of the intake process, applicants shall be asked to provide information about their current income, the income of other members of the household, if that income is likely to change in the future, and the source of all income. Applicants must also disclose their assets including real estate (other than the home the applicant is living in), vehicles, personal property, bank account balances, income on hand, and funds in other types of accounts such as CD's. Subrecipient shall not require applicants to provide documentation of the income and assets disclosed in the intake application unless there is an identified concern or reason to do so. Requiring such disclosures would significantly delay the application process and most applicants have urgent time sensitive legal needs that cannot be delayed without harm to the applicant. Furthermore, such an inquiry and request for documentation impedes establishing a trusting, open and professional attorney and client relationship that is required for effective legal representation.

3. Subrecipient's project staff shall have office space at the Dennis Maes Pueblo County Judicial Building (hereinafter "Courthouse") and shall screen individuals who may be eligible for Subrecipient's services and provide legal information and advice to eligible clients. The project attorney and paralegal will work at the Courthouse with the support and partnership of a caseworker from the Pueblo Department of Social Services who will also be present for the Pueblo County Court's eviction docket that is held weekly. The legal assistance from the Eviction Prevention and Diversion Project will range from individualized legal advice through full representation in court proceedings. When such legal representation involves court filings to challenge an eviction, the Project attorney will prepare the court documents for the client, negotiate agreements and stipulations on behalf of the client, and/or represent the tenants in court hearings and in trials. Additionally, the Project attorney will be able to facilitate discussions and communications between the landlord or the landlord's attorney and the tenants facing eviction. This will benefit those landlords and/or their attorneys by creating a more efficient negotiation process that will result in successful settlements thereby benefiting all the parties.

4. The Project attorney and the Project paralegal shall work closely with the Pueblo County Department of Social Services to coordinate social service referrals for Subrecipient's clients in need of additional resources at the time the client receives a notice of eviction. Early and integrated community services for the prevention of eviction and homelessness will be the focus of the Project partnerships. The DSS staff will provide timely information and access to eligible tenants for government programs that help cover the cost of necessities and help navigate the application process for rental assistance. DSS staff on site and working with the Project attorney and paralegal will result in a more efficient and streamlined process for individuals and their families. The Eviction Prevention and Diversion Project will provide low income and vulnerable tenants with the legal information, education, legal services and social services needed to help them avoid eviction and housing instability. The Project's focus on outreach, early intervention and legal services will benefit landlords and mitigate the negative economic consequences for both parties.

5. Subrecipient is hereby issued funding for one housing attorney who will work with other Subrecipient housing staff over a three-year period. The Project attorney will provide legal services (legal advice, education and information, brief services or extended services) to approximately 200 individuals at risk of eviction each year.

6. Subrecipient's performance under this Agreement will be measured by the following data-driven criteria:

- 6.1 Prevent eviction and reduce homelessness;
- 6.2 Improve eviction prevention service delivery;
- 6.3 Resolve cases before a judgment of eviction (Writ of Restitutio) is entered;
- 6.4 Reduce the processing time and errors in applications for Emergency Rental Assistance, thus shortening delays in receiving Emergency Rental Assistance;
- 6.5 Coordinate early access to additional public benefits and appropriate community social service;

- 6.6 Number of clients screened and eligible for services;
- 6.7 Type of legal services provided to clients;.
- 6.8 Client satisfaction surveys;
- 6.9 Number of clients referred to DSS;
- 6.10 Number and types of social services provided to clients;
- 6.11 Number of households who avoid a judgment of eviction (Writ of Restitution);
- 6.12 Total amount of emergency rental assistance provided;
- 6.13 Demographics of clients served;
- 6.14 Number of outreach and legal information and education programs provided to tenants, landlords and community providers and the number of attendees and their satisfaction with programs;
- 6.15 Participation by local partners and pro bono attorneys.

7. The approved budget during the term of this Agreement is as follows:

Year	Salaries (CLS Scale)	Fringe Benefits	Equipment	Supplies & Software	Total
First	69,390	20,814	2,000	875	93,079
Second	70,779	21,233	0	875	92,887
Third	72,195	21,658	0	875	94,728
Total	212,364	63,705	2,000	2,625	280,694

Changes in the scope of services, budget, or method of compensation contained in this Agreement, unless otherwise noted, may only be made through a written amendment to this Agreement, executed by the Subrecipient and the City.

B. Performance Monitoring:

The City will monitor the performance of the Subrecipient according to the Principal Tasks and Budget set forth herein. Substandard performance shall mean non-compliance with this Agreement. If actions to correct such substandard performance are not taken by the Subrecipient within a reasonable period of time after being so notified by the City, contract suspension or termination procedures may be initiated, in the sole discretion of the City.
