Source of information: Pueblo City Directory, Pueblo, Co.; Salt Lake City; Kansas City, Mo.; and others: R.L. Polk & Co., consulted 1886 through 2003.

29. Construction history:

According to Pueblo County tax assessor records, this house was constructed in 1913. An analysis of the materials, style, and historical records corroborates this date. The most notable alterations have been the enclosure of the front and back porches. Originally, the western third of the rear porch was enclosed as a mudroom. The rest of the porch, which originally only spanned the western two-thirds of the facade, was not enclosed until after 1952 and before 1970, based on Sanborn maps and the building materials. The enclosure of the front porch dates to a much later period, most likely after 1990.

35. Historical background:

The first owner and resident of this house, constructed in 1913, was attorney Vactor G. Garnett, the son of wealthy rancher Edward Garnett. Vactor was born around 1885 in Missouri. His Pueblo legal practice was located in the landmark Opera House Block. Vactor Garnett appears to have lived here alone and moved prior to 1919.

George McLagan, president of the Bank of Commerce, was the resident of this house in 1919. He was born circa 1860 in Minnesota. His wife, Wood McLagan, was born in Texas around 1863. They had a daughter, Hazel. The family moved to this address from 713 West 11th Street (5PE. 517.16).

Paul E. Watson and family lived at this address by 1925. Paul Watson was born around 1888 in Alabama, while his wife, Ethel, was born circa 1889 in Arkansas. The couple married around 1912 and had five children: Paul E. Jr., Emily, James M., David J., and William D. The elder Paul Watson was the assistant general freight agent for the Missouri Pacific Railway. By 1930, the family moved to 2316 West Street.

The owners and residents of this house in 1930 were Albert C. and Inez L. Walker. Albert was born on December 30, 1903, in Pueblo; Inez was born around 1905, also in Pueblo. Albert Walker's various jobs included clerk at the Walker Motor Company, manager of the Hendry-Boltholf Company, and similar positions at the Pueblo Bearing Company and the Cleveland Steel Tool Company. Inez Walker died on August 27, 1984, leaving Albert as the sole homeowner. He sold the property in 1990, ending over 60 years of ownership. He died on September 27, 1991.

39. Areas of significance: Architecture
Social History

40. Period(s) of Significance: Architecture, 1913; Social History, 1913-1958

41. Level of Significance: National State Local

42. Statement of Significance:

This property is historically significant for its association with the twentieth-century development of Pueblo's North Side Neighborhood, when the city's professional and entrepreneurial class moved northward to construct modest and large homes in the latest contemporary suburban styles. This house was home to attorney Vactor G. Garnett, bank president George McLagan, and manufacturing manager Paul E. Watson. As well, the house is architecturally significant as an example of a Craftsman-style bungalow. Character-defining features include the front gables, overhanging eaves, exposed rafter ends, knee brackets, and windows with multi-light upper sashes. However, the levels of architectural and historical significance, combined with physical integrity, are not to the extent that this property could qualify for individual listing in the National Register of Historic Places, the Colorado State Register of Historic Properties, or as a City of Pueblo Landmark. It is, in any case, a contributing resource within a potential historic district.

43. Assessment of historic physical integrity related to significance:

Constructed in 1913, this house exhibits a moderate level of physical integrity relative to the seven aspects of integrity as defined by the National Park Service and the Colorado Historical Society: location, setting, design, materials, workmanship, feeling, and association. The enclosure of both the front and rear porches concealed or eliminated some character-defining features. Yet the building generally retains its original footprint and most character-defining features, including the original windows, exposed rafter ends, and knee brackets. This building retains sufficient physical integrity to convey its historical and architectural significance.

45. Is there National Register district potential: Yes No

Discuss: Pueblo's North Side Neighborhood represents the evolution of the city's professional middle and upper classes. Its diversity of architectural styles and forms directly represents the city's changing economic and cultural climates. As well, the neighborhood is distinctive because it appears to have evolved independently of the area's dominant industry, steel manufacturing.

If there is National Register district potential, is this building contributing: Yes No N/A

46. If the building is in existing National Register district, is it contributing: Yes No N/A
