21. General architectural description:
This house is oriented to the north. White-painted stucco conceals the foundation. Narrow, horizontal, white-painted siding clads the exterior walls. Covering the gables and dormer are white-painted, square-cut wood shingles/ A combination of vertical beadboard and horizontal weatherboard cover an enclosed porch or mudroom across the rear (south) elevation. Windows are generally 1-over-1-light, double-hung sash, with brown-painted wood frames and surrounds that have projecting cornices. Projecting shallowly from the north end of the west elevation is a shed-roofed, rectangular bay. It rests on cantilevered joists, with their ends shaped into points. Opening in the western half of the rear elevation is a pair of 1-beside-1-light, sliding-sash windows, with aluminum frames. A shed-roof porch spans the nearly symmetrical front (north) facade. It has a wood floor, siding-clad kneewalls, and paired wood supports, with open trusswork. Wood steps, flaked by wrought-iron railings, approach the porch east of center, corresponding to the principal doorway. This doorway hosts a single-light, single-panel wood door, painted white. A secondary door opens in the west elevation of the enclosed porch or mudroom across the rear elevation. It host a white-painted, wood slab door, approached by concrete steps. Gray asphalt shingles cover the cross-gabled roof, and the rafter ends are exposed. The gabled host knee brackets. Protruding from the roof's north slope is a front-gabled dormer, hosting four vents of wood latticework. A red-brick chimney emerges from the roof's south-facing slope, west of center and near the roof ridge.

1922 West Street

Addressed as 1922 West Street, a second, smaller house is located just southwest of the main house. Oriented to the west, it rests on a concrete foundation. Narrow, white-painted wood siding clads the exterior walls. Windows are generally 1-over-1-light, double-hung sash, with brown-painted wood frames, aluminum-frame storm windows, and brown-painted wood surrounds. The window opening in the south end of the asymmetrical front (west) façade has a narrow upper sash. A rectangular bay protrudes near the center of the south elevation. The three window openings within this bay have been boarded shut. The east end of the south elevation has a 2 (horizontal)-over-2 (horizontal) window. A small, integral porch is located within the northwest corner of the house, and has small pent roofs, which extend it a few more feet north and west. It has a concrete floor and battered, wood piers. The principal doorway, opening in the north face of the inside corner, hosts a single-light, 3-panel wood door. A secondary doorway opens in the east end of the north elevation and hosts a 6-panel steel door. Gray asphalt shingles cover the main hipped roof and all other roof surfaces. The rafter ends are exposed beneath the broadly overhanging eaves.

IV. ARCHITECTURAL HISTORY

V. HISTORICAL ASSOCIATIONS

31. Original use(s): Domestic/Single Dwelling
32. Intermediate use(s): Domestic/Single Dwelling
33. Current use(s): Domestic/Single Dwelling
34. Site type(s): Residence
35. Historical background:
The original owner and resident of this house, built in 1916, was Leonard C. Gibbens, a conductor for the Missouri Pacific Railway. He resided here with his wife, Nannie C. Gibbens. The couple had four children: Sylvia, Helen, Calvin, and Edward. Prior to 1925, the family moved from this address and later settled at to 2107 North Grand Avenue. Leonard Gibbens died on September 29, 1947.
- By 1930, Charles and Dorothy D. Kretschner lived at this address. Charles was the proprietor of the Kretschner Tire Company as well as Charles D. Kretschner & Son, a blacksmith and automobile repair business. Both enterprises were based at 102 South Greenwood Street.
- Beginning around 1940, the house hosted a string of short-term residents, including Fred C. and Geneva Mattoon in 1940; Oliver and Willa A. Carroll in 1950; and Neil Simpson Jr. and Theadora M. Simpson in the late 1950s. Bruce L. and Marilyn L. Rowe purchased this property in 1972 and appear to have operated it as rental units. Bruce Rowe died in 1997; ownership of the property then transferred to the Marilyn L. Rowe Trust. House Buyers, Inc., purchased the property from the Rowe Trust in 2006. In 2007, the current owner, the Catherine A. Podolsky Trust, acquired the houses and lots. The Podolsky Trust operates the property as two rental units.

39. Areas of significance: Architecture
Social History
40. Period(s) of Significance: Architecture, 1915; Social History, 1915-ca. 1940
41. Level of Significance: National State Local
42. Statement of Significance:

This property is historically significant for its association with the twentieth-century development of Pueblo's North Side Neighborhood, when the city's professional and entrepreneurial class moved northward to construct modest and large homes in the latest contemporary suburban styles. This house was home to railroad conductor Leonard C. Gibbens and Charles Kretschner, the owner of automobile service companies. As well, the house is architecturally significant as an example of a Craftsman-style bungalow. Character-defining features include the front-gabled dormer, overhanging eaves, exposed rafter ends, and knee brackets. However, the levels of architectural and historical significance, combined with physical integrity, are not to the extent that this property could qualify for individual listing in the National Register of Historic Places, the Colorado State Register of Historic Properties, or as a City of Pueblo Landmark. It is, in any case, a contributing resource within a potential historic district.

43. Assessment of historic physical integrity related to significance:
Constructed in 1915, this house exhibits a moderately high level of physical integrity relative to the seven aspects of integrity as defined by the National Park Service and the Colorado Historical Society: location, setting, design, materials, workmanship, feeling, and association. The only modification has been the enclosure of the rear porch. Almost all of the original character-defining features and the original form remain intact. This building retains sufficient physical integrity to convey its historical and architectural significance.

VII. NATIONAL REGISTER ELIGIBILITY ASSESSMENT

44. National Register eligibility field assessment: Individually eligible Not eligible Need data Previously listed
State Register eligibility field assessment: Individually eligible Not eligible Need data Previously listed
Local landmark eligibility field assessment: Individually eligible Not eligible Need data Previously listed
45. Is there National Register district potential: Yes No
- Discuss: Pueblo's North Side Neighborhood represents the evolution of the city's professional middle and upper classes. Its diversity of architectural styles and forms directly represents the city's changing economic and cultural climates. As well, the neighborhood is distinctive because it appears to have evolved independently of the area's dominant industry, steel manufacturing.
- If there is National Register district potential, is this building contributing: Yes No N/A
46. If the building is in existing National Register district, is it contributing: Yes No N/A
